

AURORA

International Co-creation Learning Lab

Connecting Science & Society
2021–2022 Academic Year

VU Amsterdam

28th – 30th April
2022

Aurora invites you to join the International Co-creation Learning Lab at VU Amsterdam from April 28th to 30th. Join us to discuss and practice co-creation with international experts from Aurora universities through interactive and engaging sessions.

This 3-day workshop provides an open platform for co-creation experts, practitioners, interested researchers and educators, students and community partners to discuss and share knowledge and experiences on co-creation practices to connect science and society. This learning lab is for teachers, academic staff and researchers, and PhD students (who can obtain 3 ECTS by participating in this training).

Interested? Please register here and/or contact s.s.rai@vu.nl.

Programme Details (tentative)

During this event you will learn from co-creation experts from Aurora universities and beyond. The International Co-creation Learning Lab aims to facilitate the sharing of ideas and experiences on co-creation (best practices, pitfalls, innovations); connect co-creation experts, practitioners, students, and community partners from around the world; and build an engaged community of co-creation practitioners. Take a look at the programme below.
