INTERNATIONAL SUMMER SCHOOL IN REFUGEE LAW AND RIGHTS Faculty of Law, Olomouc, 15-25th of August 2022

ABOUT THE SCHOOL

Join us for the 9th International Summer School in Refugee Law and Rights founded 2012 by Dr Selma Porobić with late OBE Prof. Emerita Barbara Harrell-Bond from the University of Oxford. The school is modelled according to international summer schools initiated by late professor Harrell-Bond in the 1980s as pioneering refugee law training for the humanitarians.

We bring together leading academics and practitioners focusing both theoretical and practical aspects of the legal refugee protection, to proactively contribute to its advancement through future carriers in academia, UN, governmental and non-governmental organizations, media and other sectors of work. Our goal is to advance the legal protection skills and to enhance collaboration in responding to the current challenges of international refugee protection in Europe and globally.

Due to recent Russian Federation's aggression on Ukraine and the ongoing war with massive scale displacement of civilians, this year's school is entirely focused on Ukraine and entitled 'War-displaced Persons' Protection Rights - Case study Ukraine. The school is donated to Aurora Alliance Associated partner, V.N Karazin Kharkiv National University, co-organised and hosted by the Faculty of Law at Palacký University Olomouc. It will offer a 10-day hybrid training programme, possible to attend both in-person and/or online.

APPLICANTS

The school is open to professionals from different backgrounds and students of all academic disciplines. Our participants typically include staff from the international refugee and humanitarian organisations, regional and local NGOs, government officials working on refugee protection, students, scholars and researchers focusing human rights and forced migration as well as practicing or aspiring lawyers, journalists and activists.

LEARNING ENVIRONMENT

We employ an interactive learning environment using a combination of lectures, documentary films, debates and open discussions, enabling participants both to contribute to and gain an in-depth knowledge on refugee rights. Instructors are experienced and committed lawyers, scholars and practitioners in the field and bring a comparative perspective to the international protection debate. The hybrid format this year will allow for combination of interactions between participants online and in-person with dedicated workshop and group work assignments.
